

Canucks From Italian Front Strike in West

BY ROSE MUNRO
WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY, April 23—(CP)—The 1st Canadian Infantry Division and the 5th Armored Division both went into action in the Holland pocket south of the Zuider Zee in their first operation on the western front.

The forcing of the IJssel river south of Drenther, the capture of Apeldoorn and the advance to the Grebbe line was done by the 1st while the 5th carried out the spectacular tank attack northwest from Arnhem which sliced off the eastern end of the pocket and cut through the Zuider Zee.

ACHIEVED VICTORY

It was the headquarters of the 5th Division which fought in the battle of Oilerloo, 11 miles southwest of Apeldoorn. When German troops attacked this town last Tuesday 240 of them were killed, 438 taken prisoner and some of their mortar guns captured. The victory was achieved by the ordinary engineering skills of a Canadian headquarters, in addition to a squadron of tanks.

The 1st Division, commanded by Maj.-Gen. Harry W. Foster of Winnipeg and Picton, Ont., made the IJssel crossing late on April 11. They were the initial bridgehead. Divisional engineers from the 1st, 3rd and 4th Field Companies were among the sappers who bridged the IJssel. The crossing was comparatively easy and the veteran division advanced west to Apeldoorn, eight miles from the river.

The river crossing was nothing new to the "Red Patch Devils" from Sicily and Italy. They had stormed over scores of them in the long advance from the Sicily beaches to the Po Valley but for the first time in this latest crossing they were carried in hulafuses—amphibious armored vehicles.

30 miles of Bologna due north, and 35 to 45 miles of that city to the northwest.

A BBC broadcast heard in New York by CBS said the 5th Army was only five miles from the Po.

BESIEGE FERRARA
British 8th Army forces besieged Ferrara, 2½ miles south of the Po and 30 northeast of Bologna, from positions as close as 1½ miles southeast.

The 8th Army now was 220 miles inland—across the forbidding Alps and the eastern end of Switzerland—from French troops at the west shore of Lake Constance, and 220 miles from the United States 7th Army across the Danube and striking toward Munich.

The Brenner pass lay 140-odd miles to the north.

Allied armor, freed after months of bitter, stalemated mountain fighting, rumbled after the enemy.

German planes bombed Bologna last night in four small-scale raids.

CANADIAN ENGINEERS BRIDGE THE RHINE—Keeping pace with the rapidly moving First Canadian Army is no small task when it comes to building bridges for their ever-growing lines of communications but the Royal Canadian Engineers have performed near miracles in bridging the Rhine river after the Canadians' historic crossing. Top photo shows engineers sliding into position a section of bridge that crossed the Rhine near the Dutch border and on completion was named "Blackfriars Bridge" after a famous old bridge in England. The lower picture shows engineers floating sections of a Bailey bridge into place. This was later named Melville Bridge. Canadian armor is now rolling across the Rhine and other German rivers on this and similar bridges in the final stages of liberating the continent.

ective of $38,000,000, made up of navy, $8,000,000; army, $20,500,000, and air force, $13,500,000.

Officials estimated that about 3,000,000 Canadians now hold victory bonds. Men and women working in nearly 5,000 offices and factories covered by the plan invested 17.6 per cent of their next half year's payroll.

EXPENSES NOT OVER

"It can be dangerous to think that the end of the war with Germany will mean a great and immediate reduction in war outlays and borrowing needs," said Graham F. Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada and general chairman of the national war finance committee.

Both war outlays and borrowing needs are running at all-time peak levels, and even with an early victory in Europe, the outlook for the loan is good. Saving deposits are some $300,000,000 greater than a year ago, and farm and urban income remains at high levels.

A guest of honor of the Veterans' Guard of Canada under the direction of WO1 P. W. Purkis attended the ceremony.

In behalf of the Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia members, the Northwest Columbia "Travelers' Association" of Canada has subscribed $100,000 to the 8th Victory Loan.

Many members of the association are residents of Edmonton.

Two Creeds

... with but a single thought

"We know there is still an enemy and while there is an enemy there can be no peace.

We know that today, as yesterday, and many yesterdays, we must press forward.

We know full well that complacency is a snare and a serpent.

We know that the game is not won until the last man is out . . . The race is not won until the runner breaths the tape.

We have not quit. We will not quit until FULL Victory is ours."

A Soldier's Creed

"We know that ours is the lesser role for we cannot play a sailor's, soldier's, airman's part.

We know that it is dangerous to say or think 'the end's in sight so let's relax and take things easy!'

We hold what we have and we have the Bonds of seven Victory Loans. Today we buy our eighth.

We have not quit. We, too, go on until FULL Victory is ours."

WOMAN IN B.C. GROWS HER OWN SILK STOCKINGS

CHILLIWACK, B.C., April 22—(CP)—Mrs. Peter Giesbrecht is an enterprising woman who believes in growing her own silk stockings.

For the last two years Mrs. Giesbrecht has supplied her family with silk socks and stockings with the silk from silkworms she raises on her own mulberry trees. Mrs. Giesbrecht spins the cocoons on her own spinning wheel and from the yarn she knits the articles to be worn. Some she has used in the natural color, but for the everyday socks for the men she has used dyes, mostly navy blue. She knits every silk baby sock for her daughters.

The woman is the most blood-thirsty killer of all North American animals.

Photos Reveal Damage Caused By Holland Floods

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY, Holland, April 23—Air photographs today showed for the first time the full extent of the flooding of northwest Holland. What a week ago was a 50,000-acre belt of rich farmlands now is a great sheet of water 18 feet deep.

Not a house or a tree is to be seen, except for a few dark spots to mark where some houses are two to three feet beneath the surface. No livestock could be seen. Survived this torrent which swept in from the Zuider Zee April 14, were the Germans dismantled the great main dyke. In this matter reclaimed land, lived 13,000 farmers. There is nothing to indicate that the Germans gave them any warning or that there was any large-scale evacuation.

Russia Signs Friendly Pact With Polish Group

By JAMES F. KING
LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—

The Moscow radio confirmed today the signing of a 20-year friendship treaty between the Soviet Union and the Soviet-annexed Polish Provisional Government and quoted Premier Stalin as saying "I do not doubt our Allies in the west will welcome the pact."

Great Britain and the United States do not recognize the provisional regime, which has had its value for a seat at the San Francisco World Security Conference.

Marshal Stalin said the pact "signifies the consolidation of the main front of the United Nations against the common enemy in Europe."

PAST MISUNDERSTANDINGS
"Relations between our two countries in the course of past centuries were shadowed by elements of misunderstanding on both sides and not infrequently by open conflict," he said. "Such discord weakened both our countries and strengthened German imperialism."

Premier Stalin himself signed the treaty for Russia and Edward Gierowski, premier and foreign minister, for the Polish government.

Apparently Premier Stalin was throwing his full support behind a reorganization and broadening of the government, as planned at the Big Three Yalta meeting last week before they will drop the Polish government in London and create a new government in the United Nations.

POINTS OF TREATY
The Moscow radio's account gave the main articles of the treaty signed Saturday night at the Kremlin.

1. Russia and Poland will continue jointly with all the United Nations in the struggle against Germany until final victory.

2. The two parties at the end of the war will adopt measures to remove any threat of a repetition of aggression on the part of Germany or any other state which would be hostile to the peace and security of the nations.

3. If either party after the war finds herself involved in hostilities with a Germany regaining her aggressive policy, or with some state uniting with Germany directly or otherwise in such a way, the other party will immediately render to the party involved military and other assistance and support by all the means at its disposal.

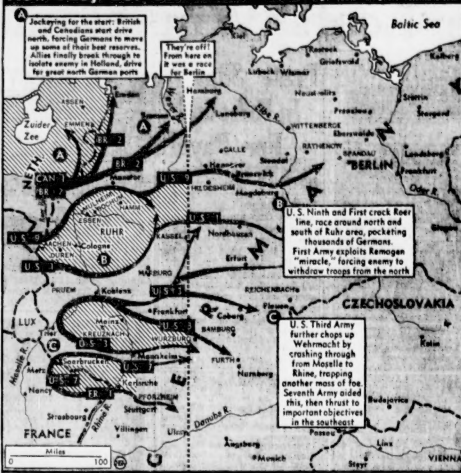

4. The contracting parties undertake not to conclude without mutual consent an armistice or peace treaty either with the Hitlerite Government or with any other authority in Germany which infringes the independence, territorial integrity or security of either party.

5. Each of the two parties undertakes not to conclude an alliance and not to take part in any coalition directed against the other contracting party.

New B-A Automobile Oil Proves Quality Under Test

In a recent interview with Roy Campbell, SAE, Chief of Research at British American Oil, our correspondent asked him how one can tell if a motor oil is like B-A's modern lubricating oil refinery at Clarkson.

"Well," said Mr. Campbell, "you first of all set up the requirements of an ideal lubricating oil. Sounds easy. For instance, 'but how do you know what an ideal oil is?'"

Mr. Campbell smiled. "To answer that," he said, "without getting too technical, we have to go back a few years—"

EARLY LUBRICANTS
In the very earliest of internal combustion engines ever built by man, animal and vegetable oils were used as lubricants. In the presence of engine heat and oxygen from the air, the animal and vegetable oils were very unstable and reaction took place with oxygen to form sludge and corrosive acids. It was then found that vacuum petroleum oils were more oxygen resistant and they were used to replace the animal and vegetable oils.

In the early gasoline engines of Daimler, Holsen, and Winton, the relatively small amount of gasoline-air mixture burned in comparison to the size of the combustion chamber and the relatively long cooling time between each chug-chug-chug of the slow running engine resulted in relatively cool pistons and bearings. However, when the automotive industry had solved the problem of building cars by mass production methods, it embarked upon a program of improving engine efficiency, of getting more power for less weight and cost.

The genius of Ford, Chrysler and Kettering guided automotive engineers in developing small, high power output engines. The greater concentration of gasoline-air charge burned in lesser space and the great rapidity of explosions caused by these new high speed engines imposed new and hitherto undreamed of demands on the stability of motor oils. In this constantly decreasing cooling time, plus ever-increasing temperatures, a minute film of oil must absorb and transfer its burden of waste heat to the already heated temperatures of the cylinder walls and crankcase oil pan. At elevated temperatures, the hydrocarbons of which petroleum lubricating oils are composed, react with oxygen, ever present in air, to form many oxidized oil products that are detrimental to the continued operation of the engine. Some of these harmful oxidation products are extremely hard black solids that form around and back of the piston rings where the very highest oil temperatures are required. These hard black deposits are of the ring sticking type and often their accumulation is sufficient to expand the piston rings outwardly against the cylinder walls until the engine actually seizes.

May Seize Motor
The best class of oxidation product is a hard glossy red to black colored resinous deposit on the sides of the piston skirts and under the piston crown and the oil of oxidation product is called "varnish". In some cases of engine operation, medium quality motor oil, the varnish on pistons may accumulate in thickness until piston rings occur.

The third class of oxidation product is known as sludge. Sludge is a brown to black colored deposit of soft tarry material and it is sometimes called "coffee grounds" by engine mechanics. Sludge becomes mixed with soot, lead ash, and water droplets from the combustion chamber flow by gases and it frequently plugs filter screens or clogs distribution passages thereby stopping oil flow.

The fourth class of oxidation product is corrosive acids. These corrosive acids attack hard metal bearings and frequently result in bearing failure.

Some petroleum oil hydrocarbons are very stable and resistant to oxidation. These stable hydrocarbons are said to possess long "life" characteristics. Since all natural unrefined petroleum lubricating oils contain both oxidation stable and unstable hydrocarbon components, the life of any given natural petroleum lubricating oil is a function of the preponderance of stable hydrocarbons in its composition.

Therefore, the "ideal" motor oil would be produced by some method of selectively retaining only the unstable hydrocarbon oil components until only the most stable of hydrocarbon oil components remain in the refined "ideal" motor oil.

Our stable "ideal" motor oil plus certain other desired service characteristics is described in this table. Mr. Campbell showed us a typed chart.

IDEAL CHARACTERISTICS
1. The oil should not oxidize to form:

(a) Oil soluble oxidation products. (Increase in viscosity); (b) Oil insoluble "ring-sticking" deposits; (c) Oil insoluble varnish; (d) Oil insoluble sludge; (e) Corrosive acids.

2. The oil should burn cleanly in the combustion chamber in order to:

(a) Reduce engine heat; (b) Reduce engine spot blow-by; (c) The oil should be waste-free (low pour point).

3. The oil should have a high viscosity index (V.I.) to insure:

(a) Ease of engine starting at low temperatures; (b) Low oil consumption at high engine speeds and temperatures.

4. The oil should have good demulsibility in order to:

(a) Resist forming water emulsions in storage; (b) Resist the formation of cold crankcase sludge (Mayonnaise); "O.K." we said, "so you imagine yourself an oil with all these characteristics, how do you go about making it?"

SUPER-MODERN PLANT
"Well," said Mr. Campbell, "that would be too long and technical to

As Organized Force

German Air Force Dead

LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—As an organized force the once dreaded German air force is dead.

From various sources Allied air officers have gathered evidence showing the German air force no longer is really directed by anyone.

What disintegrated it had left was knocked out during the last two weeks of incessant Allied attacks on over-crowded airfields.

During this brief period Allied pilots hunted down and destroyed 3,000 enemy aircraft. A majority of the enemy planes were smashed on the ground by United States 8th and 9th Air Force fighters at a cost of less than 100 of their own planes.

And development by petroleum chemists and engineers has improved oil refining to the stage where we are actually able to produce a motor oil that closely approaches the standards of the hypothetical "ideal" motor oil.

For example, modern high vacuum distillation processes completely remove all asphalt content and produce oils of low carbon residue that burn cleanly in an engine. Treating chemicals have been developed that selectively remove oxidation unstable hydrocarbons leaving a treated oil composed of stable "long life" hydrocarbons of high viscosity index characteristics.

Improved methods of de-waxing produce essentially wax-free oils. New methods of catalytic clay filtering of oils have furnished improved oxidation stability, color stability and demulsibility. And last but not least, the new B-A Perleas Motor Oil, we have an exclusive "ally" process that has resulted in the production of a motor oil of such stability and long life that it has been able to approximate performance have been established.

So do you believe that you really have been able to approximate your "ideal" oil?

Yes, we have. We know we have because it has been tested as, perhaps, no oil has ever been tested so thoroughly.

Special test engines, which are run under severely accelerated operating conditions as to temperature, speed, and load, in order to obtain an abnormally rapid rate of oil oxidation.

Italian Regime Plans to Resign When North Free

By GEORGE BRIA

ROME, April 22.—(AP)—Premier Ivanoe Bonomi's government is set to resign as soon as north Italy is liberated, but the country, acutely short of potential new leaders, probably will be ruled by virtually the same men when the new cabinet is formed.

Resignation of the four-party coalition cabinet is likely to provoke only a technical "crisis". The new government possibly headed by Ivanoe Bonomi, may include other parties, may find support at the Milan.

Printed reasons why the highly industrialized, agriculturally wealthy north, inhabited by most of Italy's statesmen, probably will not immediately produce new political figures, is that most of the region's well-known anti-fascists already are in liberated Italy. Many are serving in the present government.

Stettinius Defines Conference Aims
WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—Here is State Secretary Stettinius' definition of the scope of the San Francisco United Nations conference: "It is not a peace conference. It will not deal with boundaries, reparations or questions concerned with the disarmament and control of Germany and Japan."

"Its purpose is to prepare a charter of a world organization to preserve the peace in the future which can be submitted to the member nations for adoption."

Germans Murder Dutch Civilians
WITH THE IST CANADIAN ARMY, April 22.—(CP)—Neither lands divisions are being shot at the Germans in the area east of Amsterdam because they hang out flags to celebrate their expected liberation, according to reports reaching last Canadian Army headquarters yesterday from troops patrolling in the Grootte line west of Nijmegen, two miles south of the Zuster Ze.

More Canadian Prisoners Freed

Ottawa, April 22.—(CP)—Some hundred and fifty-five Canadians were in the German prisoner-of-war camp Stalag 207 which has been overrun by advancing Allied armies. War-time information board announced Saturday. It is not known whether the total were in the camp when the Allies arrived.

A press release also told of the freeing of Stalag 82 which was known to have 4,000 British prisoners and an unknown number of Canadians.

When the Allies entered Oflag 70 there were 1,507 British officers and 412 other ranks, most of whom also were British. The camp had three days' supply of German rations when overrun and United States rations were being brought up. A few of the prisoners were ill but medical care was good.

It also was believed that some Canadian prisoners were freed when the camp at Wolfenbutter, near the Harz mountains, was overrun and 400 British prisoners, 30 of them officers, were liberated. It was thought that among those were men from Oflag 842, who have been on the move. At last reports there were 11 Canadian officers at Oflag 842.

In addition, 197 British prisoners have been freed at Owerthof. It is on record how many of these are Canadians.

American Captives Saved From Death
WITH THE U.S. 8TH DIVISION, April 22.—(AP)—Freedom was at last ahead of death from starvation for 41 American soldiers in a German hospital overrun by the 8th Division.

The freed Americans said that many of their comrades died of malnutrition, disease and mistreatment while they stayed in the quarry at Bardone. They estimated that out of 300 men originally employed there, only 142 survived.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

There was a time, long ago, when it was considered good sense to put a baby's thumb in its mouth if he bawled already discovered, for himself, "A thumb-sucking habit is a good habit," everyone said. I can't say I ever did it, but I have seen it done. I can't say I ever did it, but I have seen it done.

In view of her teeth she tied up the baby's thumb with adhesive of suspended it in a mild cup, or poured on calcareous medicine, considering that any method she used was justified if only she could make that thumb obstinate or impossible to get at.

Came a time, long ago, when views have changed again. The thumb is no longer considered a shortcut to buck teeth, but merely a means for the natural satisfaction of one of baby's natural desires—to suck. The baby who lives four or five years of his life with his thumb in his mouth gets all the equipment he needs in those four years but lacks sufficient satisfaction for his "suck" needs. So he picks out with an aversionist thumb.

Babies who get plenty of nourishment and lots of loving attention may not need the thumb as badly as babies who get neither. Some children are almost uninterested in their thumbs and some are miserable without them in their mouths.

Left thumb, the thumb or leave it alone, the baby's thumb is a part of him. He will suck it if he is alone, he will suck it if he is with his family, he will suck it if he is with his family. He will suck it if he is with his family, he will suck it if he is with his family.

It is of these methods succeed in sucking the thumb. It is of these methods succeed in sucking the thumb. It is of these methods succeed in sucking the thumb. It is of these methods succeed in sucking the thumb.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—Young Swains Prey On Widows With Money

Rich Dowagers Experience Woes by Taking Young Husbands: Such a Man Marries a Widow Solely for Her Money

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a widow, 51 years old with a settlement of $10,000 a year. I am married to a man who is 11 years my junior. This man tells me that he does not love me, but he does not want to leave me. He says he has no money, and that his life is a misery. Just what chance for a happy marriage will I have if I marry this man?

ANSWER: There is nothing to be doubtful of in a marriage such as that would be. It would mean a broken heart and probably loss of your money for you. For any woman who is married to a man who is 11 years her junior, she is bound to be afflicted by the glamour of a late blooming romance would see that she was being married for her fortune.

Most rich widows who marry younger men than themselves do not think of the fact that they are looking for themselves and not for their pocketbooks. And they believe all the lying promises and flattery that their suitors make, but yours has not even had the decency to camouflage his intentions. He lets you know even before the wedding that he is going to expect his wife to support him and his children.

When a man has been a widower, he is often very lonely. He is lonely for a woman who will love him for himself, not for his money. He is lonely for a woman who will love him for himself, not for his money. He is lonely for a woman who will love him for himself, not for his money.

Minute Make-Ups Many in Teens Kill Nazis by Hundreds On Kusten Bridgehead

By DOUGLAS AMARON

WITH THE CANADIANS IN GERMANY, April 23—(CP)—The Kusten bridgehead will become a massive burial ground for scores of youthful German paratroopers and marines killed in a losing fight to halt the advance of the 4th Canadian Division.

German casualties have been tremendous, an infantry brigade officer said today. "Every report comes in they are being slaughtered," he said.

Accurate figures on enemy losses are impossible to obtain during battle but relatively few prisoners are being taken. Of approximately 1,200 German troops in the area when fighting began this week, it is believed fewer than 500 remain.

MAKE GOOD PROGRESS The effect of the pounding the Germans have been giving the Canadians on the ground and from the air has been to slow down the progress was made since the bridgehead was established the night of April 16th.

The advance did not carry the Canadians much more than a mile northeast of the bridgehead but it was at least the beginning of a breakthrough.

Some of the German defenders were paratroopers and marines—some of them teen-agers. Some of the paratroopers captured today were 17 years old and had been in uniform less than two months.

SAY RESISTANCE USELESS The planners contend they realize their resistance is useless and their local commander has appealed time and again for permission to withdraw. But the paratrooper divisional commander has ordered them to hold on and continue to fight.

The Canadians occupied a house Friday and found the last of an adjacent of a machine bullet. He was shot and had been in uniform for his wife, saying he no longer could stand the slaughter.

Small Blaze A small blaze at 12:50 a.m. Sunday, at the rear of McNeill's Tavern, was said to have started from a cigarette but tossed into some wood scraps and sawdust from a building undergoing repairs. No damage was caused.

In Official Order

Adolf Hitler Admits
His Forces Smashed
By Armies of Allies

WITH THE BRITISH 2ND ARMY, April 23.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has admitted by implication in an official order that the German army has been shattered by the Allied armies in the west and that German legions have been reduced to guerrilla warfare.

The order, captured by British forces south of Hamburg, said Allied superiority on the western front had ended the possibility of major military operations by the Germans, and left only guerrilla methods "shown and taught us by the Russians in the years 1942-44".

Hitler ordered his commanders not to attack Allied strong points, but "against his weak spots—flanks, rear lines of communication—if possible in his administrative areas".

The text of the Hitler order: "The situation on the western front is unfavorable to us because of the enemy's superiority in manpower, material and ammunition. Despite this, or rather because of it, we have to keep our energy up to key pitch.

"Only attacks against the enemy's flank and rear, with the disruption and cutting of his lines of communication, can guarantee success. Success in battle consists of constant attacks on the enemy's rear in conjunction with partisan warfare.

"The main point in these attacks is to force the enemy with cunning and guile into positions in which his troops are spread out all over the country and in the greatest strength in those areas where he cannot afford it.

HIT WEAK SPOTS

"Our own attacks have therefore not to be directed against the enemy's strongpoints but against his weak spots—the flanks, the rear and the lines of communication—if possible in his administrative areas. Infiltration of our own attacking troops through the enemy lines is therefore of supreme importance.

"We have to adopt the same method which was shown and taught us by the Russians in the years 1942-44. Our men have to infiltrate through the lines by one or in small groups supplied with sufficient ammunition, petrol and other materials, and must attack only if they reach the rear areas where they can achieve complete surprise against the most sensitive points.

"This order will naturally be applied to any major operation. "This order will be transmitted immediately to all troops of the army in the west."

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, April 23.—(AP)—Two additional cabinet members and accused collaborators of the fallen Japanese-dominated Philippine puppet government have been captured near Baguio, beset Communist capital on Northern Luzon. Four members of the cabinet were captured last week.

All are to be turned over to the government of the Philippines for trial after the war.

India Planning
To Take Over
Big Industries

NEW DELHI, India, April 23.—(CP)—The government of India announced yesterday a policy of "taking over" development of major industries, such as automobile manufacture and steel production, if private capital is not available for that purpose.

The statement came on the heels of an announcement that large United States automobile concerns such as Chrysler and Studebaker were planning to establish plants in India. Ford and General Motors already have assembly plants in Bombay.

It was understood the government planned to have a definite hand in the control of such industries through "representation on the board of management."

By FRANK TREMAINE

GUAM, April 23.—(UPI)—American aerial forces wrecked 126 Japanese planes and six ships in two days of battles along an 800-mile front from Japan to the southern Ryukyus.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced the heavy toll of Japanese aircraft today. He also revealed that U.S. Marines had landed on two more islands off Okinawa and disclosed that army troops had killed 11,738 Japanese and captured 27 on southern Okinawa. The Japanese planes, of which 108 were destroyed, were accounted for by Mustang fighters from U.S. task force in the Ryukyus. In addition a large force of B-29's from the Marianas may have destroyed many others in a raid on Ryukyu's air fields.

France Is Looking

GUAM.—(AP)—(Delayed) — At least one small isolated group of Japanese hiding on this island was driven to murder and cannibalism when other food had long since been exhausted, according to records on file in the legal department of Maj. Gen. Henry L. Larsen, island commander.

All information on the murder and subsequent butchering and eating of a Japanese civilian fugitive and his 12-year-old son was volunteered. The General's staff related, after several of the cannibalistic group had surrendered.

Smuts Has High
Praise For War
Effort of Canada

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—(CP)—Prime Minister Smuts of South Africa, only top-ranking delegate to the San Francisco World Security Conference who was at Versailles, praised Canada's war effort in an interview here. He commented on the difficulties Canada has encountered over conscription and other matters in his country. Field Marshal Smuts said, he had believed the only way to attain the maximum war effort was on a voluntary basis. It had worked well, he said. "I know Canada has been divided on conscription and other things but that has not prevented Canadians making a war effort that has been astounding and tremendous."Americans Find Further Atrocity

ASCH, Czechoslovakia, April 23.—(AP)—Infantrymen Saturday swept into Asch, first Czech city to fall to American arms, and uncovered another Nazi atrocity story, laying almost naked in a vermin-infested jail where they had been starved without food or water five days ago were 12 Hungarian Jewish women, survivors of a death march across Germany. They were driven from their homes in Hungarian Transylvania, May 27, 1944.

WINDMILL MAY PROVIDE PRAIRIE FARMERS WITH "FREE AS BREEZE" POWER—George W. Lea, 65-year-old Calgary inventor, believes he has the answer to the prairie's rural electrification problem. It is a self-generating wind-propelled power plant. Steel cones like the one Carley Galic tries for size are the sails of the windmill.

The inventor explains a model of his plant to Marie Retty. The master plant is 60 feet high and can provide power for a good-sized farm. Even the slightest wind from any direction catches in the 60 conical steel cups mounted spirally on the tower, seen at right. The current is stored in batteries in the little house at the tower's base which also has the controlling devices. Even if there were no wind, the batteries will store enough power for three days.

CPR LUNCH-ROOM REMODELLED—Part of a general program of improvement to stations and other public facilities, the Canadian Pacific Railway has remodelled station newstand lunch rooms at Medicine Hat, Swift Current, Broadview and Brandon, and plans similar improvements for its Fort William lunch room this season. In the case of Broadview, Sask., the lunch room renovation was an inside and outside job; the exterior of the building having been recovered with insul-bruk to make a pleasing appearance. Inside, the lunch room newstand was completely remodelled, re-decorated and provided with the latest in equipment. Station lunch-rooms have been busier than ever since the war and service personnel, as well as civilians, have appreciated the improvements. At top, the Broadview lunch room's interior, Attendant S. CANADIANS CROSS RHINE INTO GERMANY—The crossing of the Rhine by the first Canadian Army has gone down in military annals as one of the outstanding feats of the war. Men and equipment were ferried across the historic river in Ducks, their crossing being covered by smoke screens, attack boats, artillery and air cover. Top picture shows troops marching to point of embarkation for the dash across the Rhine. Note the attack boat on lorry. Lower shows ferry service by these Ducks of the Army's amphibious fleet taking battle troops across the river.

LORD LOVAT SCOUTS TRAINING IN JASPER—Before they went into action in the Alps, the famous Lord Lovat Scouts came over to Canada and spent a winter in Jasper National Park training for mountain warfare. Originally a cavalry outfit and retaining such cavalry terms as "trooper" and "squadron," the Scouts, privately maintained by Lord Lovat, took to skis (which they nicknamed "torture sticks") and such modern equipment as "weasels." The Canadian Army loaned men to handle transport, engineering and mousing, and some 80 ski instructors and other alpine experts. RCAF, RCAF and United States Army and Air Force specialists in winter warfare were associated with them in their training. Headquarters were established at Jasper Park Lodge (in pre-war days a famous resort hotel but closed for the duration) and outlying camps were set up throughout the Athabasca Valley in the Tonquin, at Maligne Lake and the Columbia Icefield. In their intensive training, the Scouts gave secret equipment, special clothing and rations a real winter test, at high altitudes and in temperatures as cold as 40 below zero. The troopers went on long ski treks, climbed mountains, spent nights in snow holes, and made a mock attack on the town of Jasper, with the RCAF checking on their visibility from the air, and dropping food and instructions. The top left photograph shows a group on ski exercises, camouflaged in white. Below, a trooper is seen in firing position. A Lord Scout is shown, top right, scaling a rock wall high above the Athabasca Valley and, below, another is ready to move. His full travel kit weighs 60 pounds.

Another useful work which is being accomplished through Boy Scouts, donations of Canada is the printing for distribution in the United Kingdom of the Scout law. 61st (R) FIELD BATTERY, P.C.A. The St. John's College detachment of the Battery are back in active training and are a welcome addition to the B troop. Many of these young men trained with the Battery last year and attended Sarcee camp in 1944.

Elementary tests of training in the use of Sten sub-machine gun are being carried out so that all personnel may be permitted to fire the guns at Wintburn on the outdoor range.

The congratulations of the battery go to Trumpeter William Weisner of the Post Office who completed his fiftieth year of service in 1945 having commenced his Army service with the King's Royal Rifles of the London Volunteers. He has served with many units of both the Imperial and Canadian armies in a colorful career.

The traditional interest of Edmontonians in Artillery training is evidenced by recent additions to the strength of the Battery. The following recruits have been taken on strength this week: Gunner, Emer. McDonald, Perry Connet, Fred Aske, Stewart McLean, Allen Knight, and Roy Hendrie who was battery sergeant-major of the Westinghouse Gun Corp.

training, and Roy N. A. Lundum has been assigned to the Bugle Band. The Bugle Band has been doing some hard practicing during the past few months, and is shaping up well.

The Marine Platoon carried out its miniature range practices on Thursday night. In the grouping, accolades were obtained by Sgt. I. Wynn, Ptes. W. F. Wright, W. E. Luchman, B. Bouchard and R. M. Rudden. In the application practice, possibilities were obtained by seven of the boys, while the remainder only dropped one point each, which is a very creditable showing, particularly in view of the fact that this is the first regular practice in which most of the boys had fired.

Arrangements are being made for a practical demonstration on Thursday night, May 3, by Signal Officer, Lt. J. R. Watson, in the use of the No. 16 sets otherwise known as "walk-talkies." This will include "RT" procedure and actual setting in of the sets, and should prove to be very interesting to all members of the unit.

4th CASUALTY CLEARING STATION

13th FIELD HYGIENE SECTION At the parade of the above units held on April 13 a very interesting talk was given by members by Sgt. Benkie. He has recently returned from an intensive refresher course at Camp Beulen and from his talk it is quite apparent that he has found valuable information and instructional knowledge which can be put to good advantage during the ensuing training season. It is hoped that we will be able to have further talks from Sgt. Benkie on the subjects covered in the course and it is proposed to try out some practical schemes arising from this course.

In addition to certain schemes which are under consideration, training of the units will be concentrated on their particular branch of the service.

"What's the result?"

"Why! You know when you buy 'Gatonia' that you are buying tested good value... there is no guesswork, no wonder to it."

"Really," said Alice to the querulous caterpillar. "You ask so many questions you remind me of Eaton's Own Brands."

"Why?" said the caterpillar, puffing away.

"Because... well, let's take an example—before any merchandise can be labelled 'Gatonia', it has to pass test after test and prove its worth."

"How?" asked the caterpillar.

"Well, there is the Eaton Research Bureau; they actually count threads and test colours and check quality—"

"Is that all?"
